

Space Vehicle Survives Too

Titov Says It's Ready To Make Another Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — Maj. Gherman Titov said today his space ship survived 17 orbits of the earth as well as he did and everything is "fine and in working order — ready for another flight."

The Soviet Union's second cosmonaut was interviewed by correspondents of Pravda, the Communist party paper, at the undisclosed launching area as Moscow prepared a hero's welcome for him.

The newsmen described Titov as in excellent health and having an "almost bronze-colored face as if tanned by outer space."

Although Titov said he encountered no trouble aboard the space ship for more than 24 hours—"conditions of weightlessness are good for working"—he did confess to one difficulty: He was homesick for solid ground.

"I knew that there was something in the nature of homesickness called nostalgia, but I found that there is also a homesickness for the earth. I don't know what it should be called but it does exist," Titov said.

"There is nothing more splendid in the world than mother earth on which one can stand, work and breathe the wind of the steppes."

"I saw the fantastic sun and stars, the extraordinary, unearthly colors. The cosmos awaits its own painters and poets, and of course, scientists."

Titov also came up with expected praise for Premier Khrushchev. The cosmonaut said a multi-orbit flight could have been accomplished before now, but Khrushchev "insisted that the designers should reduce the risk to a minimum not only to life, but to the health of the cosmonaut who would spend such a long time in outer space."

Khrushchev himself will lead the welcome for Titov in Red Square, probably Wednesday. Workers are busy decorating the square in front of the Kremlin for a huge demonstration.

Titov's father, Stepan Pavlovich Titov, 52, and his mother, Alexandra Mikhailovna, were en route from the remote Siberian village of Pokrovnikova to join in the festival. His wife, Tamara, will also be present. So will the first space traveler, Maj. Yuri Gagarin, who hurried home from a Canadian visit.

Titov was still reporting today to scientists on his 17 trips around the globe, which ended after 25 hours and 18 minutes of space travel at 10:18 a.m. Monday.

The Soviet Union's second spaceman made a pinpoint descent near the Volga 450 miles southeast of Moscow, the Soviet announcement said, almost at the spot where Gagarin landed and at almost the same hour of the day.

A spokesman at the missile complex said either a hydraulic failure or failure of a retaining cable caused the door to crash. It cracked and split with a tremendous roar.

Morton Backs Kennedy On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman, today threw his support behind President Kennedy's long-range foreign aid program.

Kennedy seeks Treasury borrowing authority to finance a five-year, $8.8-billion loan program for development of struggling new nations.

Morton, in a prepared Senate speech, said the proposal was "identical in principle" with one advocated by former President Eisenhower in 1957, for which 21 Republicans now in the Senate voted at the time.

"I see no reason in principle that they should not support the same proposal when made by this administration," he said.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., however, has predicted that 30 to 36 Senate Republicans will vote for an amendment sponsored by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to require that financing of the loan program come from annual appropriations.

Aiken, in another prepared speech, called the authority to borrow from the Treasury "primarily a grab for power" that would rob Congress of its control over the foreign aid program.

"The President requests Congress to give him authority to bet $9 billion in the game of power politics, with no assurance that it will not be lost," Aiken said.

Calf Returns To Barnyard At Haase Farm

The three-day-old Black Angus calf missing from the Haase farm at 32nd and Highway 127 Monday is back in the barnyard and everyone concerned is happy.

Mrs. William Haase reported the calf was missing Monday morning. She said she did not know if it had been stolen, or had slipped through the fence and disappeared.

Deputy Jack Coutts of the Pettis County Sheriff's department made the investigation, and reported he was unable to determine if the calf had been lost or stolen.

Monday night, Mrs. Haase decided to run a check and see if the calf had escaped, or had been taken. She checked the fence for holes, and wired the gate shut in a special way, so she could tell if someone opened the gate during the night.

Early Tuesday morning, before daylight, Mrs. Haase heard a commotion in the barnyard, and on investigation found the calf had been returned. She looked at the gate and found it had been opened.

Coutts theorized the calf might have been taken by an adult, who later found it was a little young to be taken from its mother, or it might have been taken by a youth, whose parents made him return the animal.

At any rate, Mrs. Haase is happy the calf was returned, and thanked the sheriff's department and this newspaper for their cooperation in investigating the incident and publishing the story.

Kennedy Inks New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy signed into law today a new farm program which he called "a major step toward a sound agricultural economy and a better life for the farmers of this country."

Present at the White House signing were leaders of Congress, key men on the Senate and House Agriculture committees, heads of five major farm organizations and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The new law permits higher farm price supports in return for a 10 per cent cut in wheat acreage; a continuation next year of the emergency feed grains program; and extension of a number of other farm programs—including surplus disposal and school milk programs—for varying periods of years.

For Meet With Contractor

Sewer Laterals Project Is Delayed Temporarily

A project for new sewer laterals in Sewer District 130, Woodlawn Addition which would serve lots H, I, J, K, L, M, and N, has been held up until members of the Sanitation Committee can meet with J. W. Atkinson who has bid on the project. The decision of the council not to act on the bid, Monday night, was made after Atkinson's bid had a clause for $25 per cubic yard in removal of solid rock if solid rock was found in the area.

The project was presented to the council a month ago but was tabled when Atkinson's bid was higher than the Engineers' estimate. A re-survey of the project was conducted by Engineer Robert Cunningham and it was advertised for bids again.

Atkinson's bid was $14,981.85 but contained a clause of $25 per square yard for removal of rock if solid rock was struck in the digging of the ditches for the sewer lines. The engineer's estimate for the second bidding was $15,604.75, raised due to additional costs of materials.

On Kentucky And Ohio

To Re-Submit Plan On Street Coating

The City Council, Monday night, discussed and finally agreed to re-submit to the property owners on South Ohio from Broadway to 16th street, and those on Kentucky from Broadway to the MKT right-of-way a proposal to mat coat those streets. It will be done under a fund matching plan by the city according to the discussion.

The project earlier this spring was presented to cover the brick streets with an asphalt mat coat, but remonstrances from a majority of property owners caused the program to be sidetracked. Under the new budget and with some additional funds it was found a project of matching funds should be given consideration.

Councilman Jack Cunningham pointed out he had talked with several of the property owners on Kentucky as did Councilman Raymond Roberts and found a good number ready to reconsider the project. But he also emphasized that a figure should be derived at which the council could present to the public on the limitations as to the cost of the mat coating. City Engineer Robert Cunningham pointed out the estimates on the job, could be placed so the exact limit on Ohio avenue would be no more than $2 while those on Kentucky, a much narrower street would run no more than $1.25 a front foot. Improvements in the street at 12th and Ohio and 12th and Kentucky would also be made under the program, in other words straightening the jogs in the two streets.

Asking Mayors To Fight Hike In Gas Rates

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mayor H. Roe Bartle is inviting mayors of 69 Kansas and Missouri cities to join in opposing a proposed increase in natural gas rates.

Bartle has scheduled a luncheon in Kansas City for the mayors Sept. 7 to discuss joint legal action in an effort to reduce the expense of fighting the increase.

The Cities Service Gas Co. has filed a new application with the Federal Power Commission asking for an $8.5 million rate increase which would be passed along to gas users.

From Complacency to Fear

Express Feelings On Space Flight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The latest Soviet earth orbiting brought reactions from the average American today ranging from fear to complacency about its importance to grave doubt and resigned acceptance that it actually took place.

A street survey showed that Americans across the nation ran the gamut of emotions in expressing their feeling about Maj. Gherman S. Titov's having circled the earth more than 17 times in slightly over 25 hours.

Some said they were scared, many were amazed. A few said they didn't really care. Others looked on it as a step toward solution of the cold war.

Some offered unqualified congratulations on the Soviet accomplishment but most did so reluctantly, wishing it had been the United States that had turned the trick.

Albert Lange, Waterbury, Conn. salesman—"I think it was a marvelous thing. I think we'll catch up just the same."

Al Rinaldi, Richmond, Va., high school coach—"It depresses me that they are so far ahead of us—I am not jubilant at all."

Mrs. Robert Fitch, Dallas, Tex., housewife—"I have no faith in the statements coming from the Soviet Union. I doubt the truth of this latest man-in-space story."

Mrs. Erna Kleve, Seattle, Wash., housewife—"I think it's silly to send anyone up there."

Cyril Birges, Chicago telephone operator—"I think it's overpublicized."

Mrs. Charles E. Derby, Boston housewife—"No doubt it's so, but I believe the U.S. will be out in front when things come to a head."

Mrs. Raymond Bush, St. Louis, Mo., housewife—"I guess you think I'm terrible, but I just can't get very worried about it."

Robert Jarobe, Indianapolis, Ind., pensioner—"I won't believe it until I see it."

William Rines, Washington, D.C., engineer—"Shame on us."

Sidney Nadler, Miami realtor—"I'm scared as the devil, frankly."

J. Minter Wherritt, Kansas City, Mo., pharmacist—"It should make us realize that we are a little further behind than we thought."

Julia J. Fehler, New York City housewife—"The question is—did they really do it. Personally, I don't think they did."

Robert Salen, Denver, Colo., basketball coach—"It's a bad time for this to happen when we are bargaining about Berlin."

Raymond Lopez, Denver, Colo., milkman—"I think both sides will come to an agreement anyway, so we're not any worse off."

William Josephson, Russian-born Virginia salesman—"There are still a lot of phony things going on over there. I have confidence in President Kennedy."

Jeri Ray, Arlington, Va., typist—"I think it's wonderful they got him up there."

Minnie Behr, Richmond, Va.—"I think it's wonderful, and more power to them. I know that we will catch up with them."

Dwight Martin, Los Angeles pensioner—"Haven't heard about it, and I don't care. Haven't read a paper in a month."

Pledge Longer Work Day At Plants If Necessary

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today organized a show of workers' solidarity behind Premier Khrushchev's firm stand on Berlin. Defense workers gathered at meetings to pledge a longer day at the plant if needed.

Khrushchev, who called for East-West negotiations on Germany but stuck to his demand for East German control of the access routes to Berlin, told the Soviet people Monday night that no sacrifice would be necessary to bolster the nation's military power.

But defense workers throughout the nation were summoned to factory meetings immediately after the speech. Communist party activists in fiery speeches called for a show of support for Khrushchev's policy and workers raised their hands to approve previously prepared resolutions on a longer work day. The Communist party paper Pravda published a picture of one solemn-faced group with hands raised at a Moscow defense plant.

The paper said the workers' meetings "approach the government with the request to permit defense plants to switch from a seven- to eight-hour working day for the purpose of further strengthening the defenses of the fatherland."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union may have to move divisions to its Western borders and call up reservists. But he told the Russians that no extra appropriations would be necessary for the arms buildup.

"The armaments which have already been produced and are being produced by our industry will be sufficient," he said. "We shall not make the people shoulder unnecessary, unjustified burdens."

U.S. officials, however, still expect the Berlin question to result in negotiations late this year, and not until then do they expect Khrushchev to reveal what concessions he might have in mind.

Once again the Soviet premier said he planned to sign a peace treaty with the Communist East German government.

Also, as he has in the past, Khrushchev denied any intent to "infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers" in Berlin.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that Khrushchev was "more positive than he has been before" in his (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 3)

No Agreement By Congress On Defense Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two hours of Senate-House bargaining ended without agreement today on terms of a $47 billion defense money bill, but one of the conferees expressed hope of a complete compromise later in the day.

That view came from Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., leader of the Senate group, as a joint conference committee recessed for lunch.

Figures in the House bills are more than $4 billion apart. The House passed its bill before President Kennedy asked nearly $3.5 billion extra for increased military strength in advance of a possible showdown with Russia over Berlin.

Tax Increase Not Necessary

City Tax Level Steady At $1.59 Per 100 Valuation

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

Sedalia property owners will pay $1.59 per hundred valuation in city taxes for this year, the same tax level that has been in effect for the past several years.

It is noted that in view of the bond issue of the Urban Plan no tax increase was found necessary as was brought out during the time the plan was being brought before the people of Sedalia.

Mayor Abe Silverman and Councilman E. B. Smith, chairman of the Finance and Tax committee of the Council, brought out the paying off of the Army and Hosp. No. 2 bonded indebtedness made this program possible. Switching of the tax on the bonded indebtedness which has been paid to the Urban Plan, made it possible to maintain the past standard of city tax.

The Council passed the tax ordinance for the fiscal year which calls for the following on the 100 dollar valuation: $1.00 for general revenue; .0409 cents for Park Improvement bonds of 1947 and .0010 cents for interest on Park Improvement bonds; .1793 for Public Sewer Bonds of 1947 sinking fund and .0125 for interest on the Public Sewer bonds; .1000 cents for Public Library maintenance; .309 cents for Public Library bonds passed in 1955 and .0013 for interest on the Library bonds; .0511 for John Homer Bothwell Memorial Hospital bonds of 1955 and .0130 for interest on the Hospital bonds; .0500 cents for the Firemen's Pension fund; and .1100 cents for the Urban Traffic Plan bonds, passed in 1959. All totalling $1.59.

Councilman Smith also called attention to the bond booklet

Skeptical Reaction To Plan

Find Little New In Khrushchev's Plans On Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal to "negotiate in an honest way" on Berlin drew generally skeptical reaction from congressional and diplomatic sources.

U.S. experts found little that was new on Khrushchev's plan for Berlin in the Soviet leader's radio-TV speech Monday.

The White House left open the possibility that President Kennedy might comment after a translation can be studied.

The State Department also was officially silent.

U.S. officials, however, still expect the Berlin question to result in negotiations late this year, and not until then do they expect Khrushchev to reveal what concessions he might have in mind.

Once again the Soviet premier said he planned to sign a peace treaty with the Communist East German government.

NFO Holding Action Set This Fall

DES MOINES, IOWA (AP) — The National Farmers Organization plans to stage a holding action on corn and soybeans this fall.

The NFO in a one-day meeting Monday attended by 13,000 members and guests from a 14-state area, said it would ask $1.49 a bushel for corn and $2.59 a bushel for soybeans in the holding action.

The support price is $1.20 a bushel on corn and $2.30 a bushel on soybeans.

In the past NFO members have withheld designated products from markets until they receive what they consider a fair price.

The decision to stage the holding action came after NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., told the cheering group the NFO has about two-thirds of the necessary membership to "bring processors to the bargaining table."

He said the NFO was not ready to stage an all-out holding action on all farm products until its membership was increased.

A master contract will soon be drafted by the NFO's directors, Staley said, through which "We will be able to pick out one or more processors that do not agree with the terms of the contract and sell to processors that do."

Okay Bill to Give Hijackers Life Term

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee unanimously approved today a bill to make airplane hijacking punishable by life imprisonment.

The hijacking of a Continental airliner over El Paso, Tex., last week and other similar incidents in recent weeks spurred action on the bill.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., committee chairman, told newsmen he hoped to get a Senate vote on the bill this week.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a practical nurse for a widower about 55. I do the light housework, the cooking, and I give him his medicine. He was in an industrial accident three months ago.

At first my patient was very pleasant but now that his health is improving he's getting too frisky. I'm 28 and happily married to a nice fellow. If he knew how this old gaffer limped after he'd make me quit. The company my patient works for pays him full salary all the time he is recuperating. They also pay me, and I might add, they pay me well.

I love my work and this assignment is ideal because the man lives close to our apartment. I'd hate to quit, but now that he's getting stronger I don't know how much longer I can manage him.

—S. L.
Dear S. L.: Tell the old gaffer that a guy who is well enough to chase the nurse is well enough to go back to work, and if he doesn't behave himself you'll phone his boss and tell him so.

When you make your position clear he'll simmer down.

Information Available On Wool Contest

Information on the popular "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest for girls between the ages of 13 through 21 may be secured by writing to Home Sewing Department, American Wool Council, 520 Railway Exchange Building, Denver 2, Colo., where entry blanks may also be secured.

Mrs. Paul Houston, 1601 West 14th, Sedalia, will again serve as district director for Sedalia District, which is District 4. This year's contest will be different since the county contest has been eliminated, and the District 4 contest will be held in Sedalia.

The contest is sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the National Wool Growers Association and the American Wool Council, with headquarters in Denver and the reward for the national contest will be a trip to the 50th state, Hawaii, and will be awarded at the national finals next January, along with hundreds of other prizes for other contestants.

This year's contest will bring a swirl of bright colors in the contest because the forecast for fall in wool fabrics is colorful with rich shades in the 100 per cent wool taken from the jewel box and the spice cupboard, according to Mrs. Gladys Chappit, director of home sewing for the American Wool Council.

The promotion color, she said, most likely to succeed this fall is Magenta, with the rest of the rich red family represented by Cranberry, Rosay, Fox Red, Jet Pink, Chili, Crushed Beet and Rock Amber.

The always popular blue and green colors feature Dynamic Blue, Kingfisher Blue, Flame Navy, plus Fantasy Green, Bright Juniper or Spruce, Teal, Turquoise and Sunlit Emerald.

Spicy tones are always a fall color choice, and new shades are called Hot Ginger, Bittersweet, Honey, Gold, and Deep Tangerine. Brown may also hit the fashion spotlight, and purple tones selected for fall are Amethyst and Violine. The classic neutral colors are black, off-white and greys.

The styles this fall are simple and uncomplicated in construction with new features being the low flares and bias styling.

The many textures and weaves in all-wool add to its popularity. Plaids with mohair loops, darning stitch accents, color twisted worsteds, horizontal nubs, thick and thin yarns, brushed surfaces, shantungs and irregular ribs add a surface texture in soft wool to give the sewing enthusiast a wealth of variety for her back-to-school wardrobe, and a chance for a jet trip to Hawaii.

From the Fair Secretary

BPW Club Hears Details On This Year's State Fair

The Missouri State Fair means a million and a half dollars to Sedalia each year. W. H. Ritzenthaler, secretary of the Fair, told members of the Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday night at the dinner meeting of that organization at Bothwell Hotel.

He went on to explain that planning for the Fair is a year around job and 14 people are employed the entire year. A total of 401 Sedalians have jobs at times during the year and at Fair time there are 800 people employed from over the state and Sedalia with a great deal of money left here, with $83,000 spent with merchants. Then there are hotels, motels and other places that come in for their share.

In telling of the improvements at the Fairgrounds, Ritzenthaler gave a preview of things to come. This year the agriculture exhibits must again be held in a tent because the agriculture building is said to be unsafe, but a sum of $230,000 has been approved by the legislature for a new agriculture building.

This building, he went on to say, will have a lot of floor space, will be both heated and air conditioned, and will be a convention type building available to the people of Sedalia and the people of Missouri for all kinds of large meetings. Another advantage will be the adequate parking space for any size meeting.

The fairgrounds this year, the speaker went on to say, are very beautiful because of the weather we have had, with everything fresh and green and the flowers on the grounds exceptionally pretty. The Highway Gardens, the real beauty spot of the grounds, have been improved, and landscaping has been done at the Conservation building to the north of the grounds.

The front gate has been repainted and just inside the gate are flower beds. A new tile building houses rest rooms and all the streets have been newly resurfaced. The 4-H building, the MFA, the grandstand, and other buildings have been repaired and repainted.

The floriculture building has been air conditioned, and, commented Ritzenthaler, that just shows what can be accomplished when a group of women go after the legislature for something.

The State Fair, he told the group was started for the purpose of showing agriculture and industrial exhibits of the state. This year there is the largest number of livestock exhibits entered that has ever been and there will probably be more, with adjoining states showing too, and many nationally known breeders.

The Horse Show promises to be an outstanding one, too, he said, with all kinds of horses to be shown in every class.

Sedalia has one of the best mile tracks in the country, he said, and the Grand Circuit is run here as a preview for the race for bigger money.

This year there will be among the educational exhibits one from the School of the Ozarks.

The grandstand entertainment will be a musical show Saturday through Thursday with races or country music on other nights. And there will be a wonderful display of fireworks.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Georgia Giokaris, chairman of the finance committee.

Special music was by Don Broadus, who sang: "You'll Never Know" and "I Believe" and as an encore "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Miss Doris Stott was the accompanist. The soloist was introduced by Mrs. Opal Hugelman, music chairman.

Mrs. Jessie Göist, president, presided over the meeting and

Summit Meet For Strings In Rehearsal

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wednesday night at the Pilgrimage Theater: the string summit meeting.

The reason for the concert: they like to make music.

This major musical event brings together the soaring talents of violinist Jascha Heifetz and cellist Gregor Piatigorsky. They will be joined in three concerts by viola player William Primrose, pianist Leonard Pennington and such other string artists as Virginia Majewski, Arnold Belnick, Joseph Stepansky, Gabor Rejto and Israel Baker.

I drove to Cahuenga Pass at the northern tip of Hollywood to observe the preparations. Workmen were busy erecting baffles to keep out the noise of the Hollywood Freeway and a panel overhanging the stage to wait the music to the audience.

Piatigorsky was first to arrive. A husky bear of a man in light slacks and blue coat, he explained why he and Heifetz had chosen the 1,300-seat theater. They could easily fill the 20,000-capacity Hollywood Bowl across the street.

"Ah, but the sound would not be the same," the cellist said. "Chamber music is meant to be played in a small place."

Precisely at the rehearsal hour of 7:30, Heifetz appeared. Handsome with short, curly hair, he wore a dark blue suit and carried his violin case. He gazed at the construction over the stage and commented, "Looks like a gallows."

Heifetz also discussed the hazards of outdoor playing. They include weather—"it must not be too humid"—and aircraft.

"I don't know whether they can hear the music up there or not," he said wryly. "But somehow pilots have a talent for flying over during the slow passages, the most important parts."

Primrose, a precise-looking man in dark suit and glasses, appeared with his violin, and the trio walked to the platform.

The two violinists sat upright on the edge of their chairs while Piatigorsky slouched, his big arms enveloping the 1715 Stradivarius. The music sounded perfect but the artists weren't satisfied.

They moved their chairs back a few feet on the stage and played again. Then they tried it on the

Savings, Loan League Head Criticizes Treasury Study

The president of the United States Savings and Loan League has sharply criticized the Treasury study recommending increased taxation of savings and loan associations.

"The Treasury study recommendation, if accepted by Congress, will mean a reduction in savings and loan dividend rates and, in turn, a substantial reduction in the home mortgage lending done by savings and loan associations which this year will do approximately 45 per cent of all home lending," said C. Elwood Knapp, the League president.

"It will ultimately mean a reduction of from $5 billion to $6 billion in funds available for home lending from savings and loan associations which would produce a real crisis in the home mortgage and real estate markets, curtail home building and real estate activity, and could well trigger a serious recession in the next few years."

Mr. Knapp said that, "while the Treasury statement on savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks would have considerable impact on the mortgage market, the Treasury study seriously underestimates the extent of this impact."

Mr. Knapp noted that the statement of the Treasury position with respect to savings and loan taxation originally was due some time in June and that the delay apparently was occasioned by protests of officials of various housing and lending agencies.

The League official warned that enactment of additional taxes would force the federal government to increase subsidies to housing substantially to compensate for the certain decrease in home mortgage funds available from the savings and loan and mutual savings bank business.

Characterizing the Treasury statement as representing a "penalty wise and pound foolish" philosophy, Mr. Knapp said that federal appropriations and subsidies for direct lending would be many times greater than any increase in the amount of taxes collected as the result of possible enactment by the Congress of the Treasury program.

Knapp took sharpest issue with the premise repeated several times in the statement that ultimately and logically savings and loan associations should be given loss reserves no greater than ordinary profit corporations and banking corporations. He said "This completely ignores the basic difference in organization, ownership, function and lending powers between commercial banks and savings and loans."

"It should also be emphasized that this recommendation comes on the heels of congressional enactment of a $6 billion housing bill which evidences the desire of the Congress and the Administration to do everything it can to increase home building and the funds available for home financing."

"The Treasury recommendation would have just the opposite effect."

Referring to the Treasury recommendation of a "transition period" of three to five years before the taxes proposed become fully effective, Mr. Knapp pointed out that this is an implied recognition of the devastating effect of its program on the mortgage market. He also pointed out that the full impact of the Treasury program would become effective just when the World War II "baby boom" would be felt on the housing market and when the demand for homes will increase at a very rapid rate.

Noting that savings and loan associations in 1961 will finance the construction or purchase of 1,100,000 homes, Mr. Knapp said that if the Treasury proposal were on the books today, this number would be reduced to somewhere between 500,000 and 600,000.

"In view of the harmful effect on housing and the national economy involved in the Treasury proposal, we are confident Congress will reject the Treasury suggestions," he said.

Seeks Funds To Rescue 14 Elephants

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A retired surgeon is trying to save the remnants of a rampaging herd of wild elephants before irate planters shoot them.

The beasts, driven to destructive fury by the inroads of civilization which cut off their jungle retreat, have been uprooting coconut trees and trampling down acres of crops.

Only 14 survive from the original herd of about 87. Planters shot most of the others in an effort to preserve their coconut groves and rice paddies.

"The rest will probably be killed unless we can get them to sanctuary," said Dr. Richard L. Spittel, head of a committee trying to raise funds to save the elephants.

Spittel's committee has conceived an elaborate plan to drive the elephants to Wilpattu National Park 17 miles from their jungle retreat by the Dederu River, 50 miles north of Colombo.

Spittel hopes to launch the drive in a few days so he can get the herd to Wilpattu in a few days before the monsoon season sets in. But he estimates the project will cost more than $4,000 and so far the committee has only raised about $500.

Hundreds of volunteers and Red Cross workers equipped with firecrackers and walkie-talkie radios will take part in the roundup.

They must flush the elephants from the dense jungle and drive them through wooded strips running between plantations and rice paddies.

Ceylon's elephant population has dropped from countless thousands to only about one thousand, said Spittel. The survivors must be kept in their natural habitat or the breed will become extinct since elephants refuse to breed in captivity, he said.

Weed Complaint Backfires On An Ohio Woman

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A Springfield woman called police Monday asking that the owner of a lot in her neighborhood be forced to cut the weeds. She gave police the name of an attorney she said was responsible for the property's management.

Police told the attorney the weeds must be cut. The attorney said he no longer was responsible for the property because the lot had been sold.

Police found the new owner was the woman complaining about the weeds. She told police she had been dickered for the lot but was not aware the deal had gone through.

She was given five days to have the weeds cut.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Dwight Gazlay has offered a $25 reward for the return of his false teeth—the upper plate.

Gazlay, 32, lost the plate Saturday in 40 feet of water while fishing near a buoy about eight miles west of St. Petersburg Beach in the Gulf of Mexico.

A new set of choppers would cost him about $125 he said. Gazlay hopes some skindiver will retrieve the plate for a $25 reward.

"I know exactly where they went down, about 25 yards southwest of that buoy," he said.

Miss Sharon Howard Becomes Bride Of Mr. Donald Echerle

Before an altar decorated with lilac gladioli and pink carnations at the St. Joseph Catholic Church in Pilot Grove, Miss Sharon Howard and Mr. Donald R. Echerle were united in marriage at ten o'clock Saturday morning, July 29. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Monsignor Hagedorn.

Mrs. Ed Oswald, soloist, sang "Ave Maria" accompanied by the organist, Miss Ruth Kempf.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon net over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves tapering to the traditional points over the hands. A pleated nylon panel insert complemented the full skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was edged in lace and was held in place by a scalloped crown of seed pearls.

She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white lilac edged gladioli with pink and lilac streamers.

Mrs. Harold Joe Day, Boonville, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a lilac embroidered and flower trimmed sheer nylon gown over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline. The flared skirt was accented with flowing panels at the back and a cummerbund at the waist.

Miss Jennie Rugen, Clifton City, and Mrs. Joe Fancier, Pilot Grove, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to that of the maid of honor. The three attendants carried bouquets of pink carnations centered with two white gladioli fringed in lilac and with pink streamers.

Mr. Jim Echerle, Boonville, served as best man for his brother. Groomsman were Mr. Donald Kempf and Mr. Earl Wessing, Pilot Grove, cousins of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Harold Joe Day, Mr. Jack Davis, Mr. Charles Wessing and Mr. Don Wimmering, Boonville.

The mothers of the bride and groom both chose blue and white floral jersey dresses with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

For traveling, the bride chose a blue sheath dress with a matching jacket. Following the wedding trip through the south, the couple will make their home in Boonville.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Showing off is second nature to a toddler, but actually a bit of ham acting isn't entirely bad. It often helps develop self-confidence and social poise. However, when it goes beyond the limits of self-expression and high spirits, it's a good idea to distract your little entertainer with some quiet play.

New flavor surprise for the light of your eyes: Gerber Junior Spaghettini, Tomato Sauce and Beef. Tender, enriched spaghetti teams up with bits of juicy beef and savory tomato sauce. So "grown-up" good you won't have a bit of trouble tempting your tyke.

Little appetites are always better off when you set a toddler's table with Gerber Junior Foods. Why? Because the flavors are luscious, the colors sing and the texture is properly minced for tots with teeth. Like Gerber Strained Foods, they're specially processed to preserve true flavors and the utmost in nutritive values.

Little appetites tend to taper off at about the end of the first year, because baby's rate of growth slows down considerably. Naturally he doesn't need the amount of food he needed during the first year. Good way to keep your

Gunman Halted Robbery When Customers Came

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Customers unwittingly caused two truces in a Hialeah loan office holdup.

Office manager Gene Waterson said a gunman told him, "Give me all your money." He said he was about to comply Monday when a customer walked in. The bandit pocketed his pistol and Waterson attended to business.

Waterson said the bandit pulled the gun again after the caller left, but another came in and the robber once more hid his weapon.

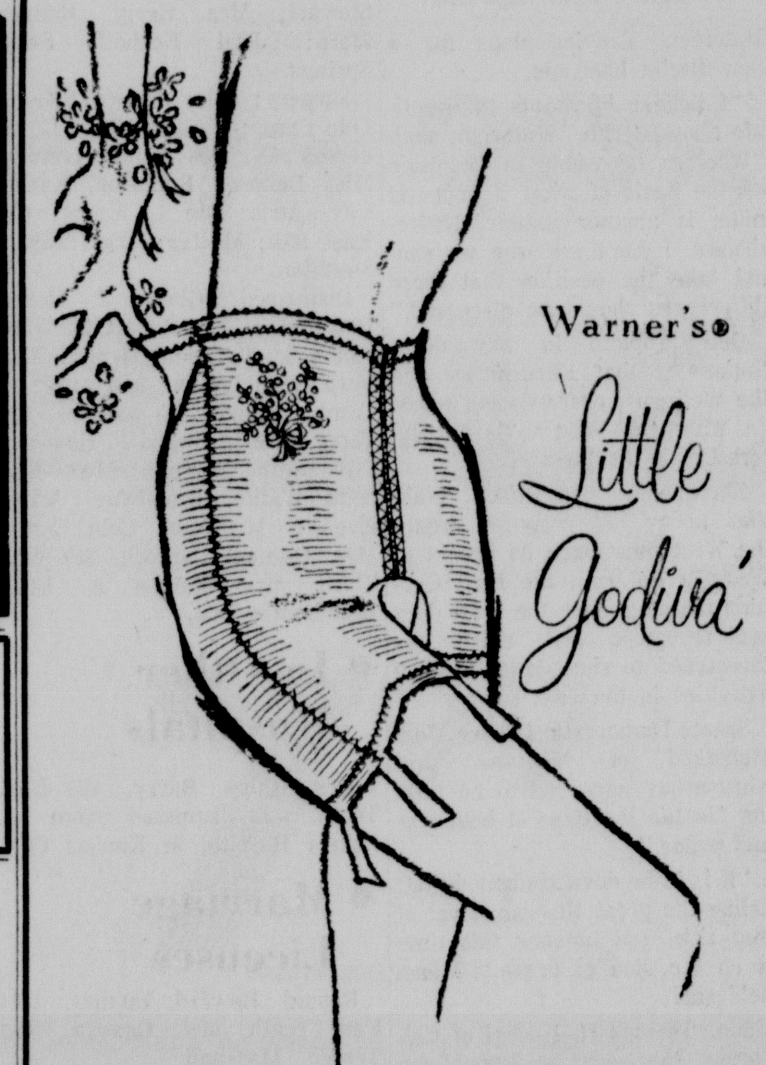

When they were alone again, Waterson said, the gun reappeared, the persistent bandit collected the cash and departed. Police said the loot was under $200.

Senator Is Fighting FPC Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., told the Senate today President Kennedy's appointment of a former Texas oil man to the Federal Power Commission amounts to "stacking the deck, loading the dice, against the householder."

Proxmire renewed his one-man fight against Senate confirmation of Lawrence J. O'Connor Jr. for a seat on the FPC, which regulates the oil and gas industry.

Proxmire spoke during most of Monday's nine-hour Senate session, and said he would need 10 to 15 hours more to complete his speech.

As he resumed his speech today, he denied he was filibustering. He said he has stuck to his subject of criticizing O'Connor's fitness for the post, and has not used quorum calls or other delaying tactics to consume time.

Proxmire charged that O'Connor is a man with a "built-in bias in favor of the industry" who would help to regulate as a FPC member.

He also quoted statistics which showed, he said, that the industry has such vast power that it has obtained special tax benefits under which some rich oil companies pay a lesser rate than wage earners do.

He said the industry does not need a spokesman on the FPC in addition.

The Senate met two hours early with Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana anxious to get a vote on O'Connor and resume other legislative business including the controversial foreign aid bill.

But Proxmire told newsmen "I have a great deal of material which I wish to document for the record."

O'Connor, an oil man from Houston, Tex., has been serving as oil import administrator in the Interior Department.

Proxmire's announced objective is to induce the Senate to send the nomination back to the Senate Commerce Committee, which had approved it unanimously a week ago.

Senate leaders said privately they expected not more than a few votes would be cast against the nominee.

statement denying plans for a new Berlin blockade.

"I believe he wants to negotiate about Berlin," Fulbright said. "Whether he wants to negotiate on the basis of what if yours is mine is another matter. Nevertheless, I don't see why we cannot take the position that these differences should be discussed."

One problem in any negotiations is that Khrushchev and the Western powers do not agree on what the West's "lawful interests" in Berlin are.

Khrushchev has made plain that under his proposed treaty the West must seek its access to West Berlin from the East German regime, which the West does not recognize and which has threatened to shut down Western activities in the city.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Khrushchev appeared to be talking "in the language of both war and peace."

"It is to be devoutly hoped that, unlike the great Russian novel of that title, the balance this time is on the side of peace," Mansfield said.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said he felt the speech had a belligerent tone.

"If, God forbid, war should come, Khrushchev will be the aggressor. He knows it and the world knows it," Kuchel said.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said he believes the Khrushchev statements "open the way for negotiations" despite the threats the Soviet premier made.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said the Khrushchev speech should clinch passage of President Kennedy's foreign aid program.

The speech proved, he said, that "we are faced with an intensified Communist propaganda program filled with threats, with the possibility of war."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee said, "I think Khrushchev took a good, long step forward in what he said about maintaining access to Berlin."

Aiken said he thinks it is "time for both sides to stop shaking missiles and start talking."

Some Differ On Saving Ozark Rivers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Witnesses agreed today the Ozark scenic riverways in Missouri should be preserved but differed on the means.

Their views, offered to a House Agriculture Forest subcommittee, was split between bills calling for preservation of the area as a national monument by the National Park Service and proposals to turn it over to the U. S. Forest Service. The Park Service is in the Interior Department; the Forest Service is in the Agriculture Department.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., the leadoff witness, supported the forestry approach. He said it would preserve better the character of the scenic area in the Clark National Forest and take less land from private owners.

Curtis said the Park Service approach would attract more visitors because of the greater recreational facilities that would be provided. But residents of the area are overwhelmingly in favor of development by the Forest Service, he added.

An opposing view came from George A. Selke, assistant secretary of agriculture. He said it would not appear desirable for the Agriculture Department to seek to enlarge the area under its jurisdiction in order to administer narrow strips of land along the Current and Eleven Point rivers area. These strips are now outside the national forest boundary.

Under the circumstances in this situation," he said, "the establishment of a national monument appears to be desirable."

The national monument idea was supported in a statement by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who has offered a bill in the Senate to preserve the riverways under the Park Service.

Davis Biggs, president of the Ozark Rivers Association, said there is "bitter opposition by present owners to the prospect of forced sale or condemnation of their property." But they feel, he added, "that they can live" with the bill proposing the Forest Service approach.

Leo A. Drey, owner of Pioneer Forest, Salem, Mo., said the people of the area favor the smaller land buying under the Forest Service proposal.

William H. Whyte, of the Rockefeller Foundation, backed the forest approach.

Under that proposal, he said, "the public does not have to buy the whole bundle of rights."

"In many cases," he said, "its purpose can be served by buying only one or a few of the rights in the property."

Paratroopers Jump In Mock War Maneuver

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Strategic Army Command paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division jumped today in an Army-Air Force maneuver of simulate limited warfare.

The troopers, whose military mission is instant response to limited war anywhere on the globe, hit the silk over two drop zones near Camden, S.C., about 100 miles southeast of here.

The 2nd Airborne Battle Group of the 501st Infantry led the assault, the first big airdrop of Exercise Swift Strike. The first out of the troop carrier planes was Col. G. M. Griswold, commander of the battle group and a member of the 501st 20 years ago.

Twelve of the 17 Air National Guard units participating already are under alert for possible active duty as a result of President Kennedy's action in increasing the nation's military strength.

Five hundred and fifteen military aircraft of all types are being used.

working capital which is deemed to be ample for this purpose.

"The Finance Committee attempted to give consideration to each and every department for the full amount that was requested by the individual departments. The appropriations do provide for an increase for various employees and car allowances in some instances. The amount required to grant the increase in salaries and car allowances amounts to approximately $16,500.00. It is the recommendation of the Finance Committee that the salary increases and car allowances, as provided in the appropriations, be retroactive to the beginning of the fiscal year, June 1, 1961 and payable by August 31, 1961," the message included.

Another portion of the message said, "In addition to the Budget and Appropriations the Committee recommends that the fees of the City Scales be increased and that a consideration be given to a charge being placed on commercial businesses for the picking up and disposing of garbage. It is anticipated that these additional revenues would provide approximately $10,000.00 annually."

The Committee in its message recommended the tax levy for the year to be $1.59 per hundred valuation.

The Council also passed an ordinance setting forth the maximum annual salaries of City employees of various departments as well as the annual car allowances. The salaries and allowances were voted to be retroactive to June 1, 1961.

Latins Agree On Kennedy's Aid Program

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Latin-American leaders generally agreed today with the aims of President Kennedy's sweeping program for hemisphere development, but the biggest nations objected to a U.S. call for coordination of economic planning.

With the exception of Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara, delegates to the Inter-American Conference lauded the U.S. offer of long-term multibillion-dollar aid to help raise Latin-American living standards.

However, serious objections were expressed to the proposal for a seven-man planning committee of experts to coordinate development programs in the various countries.

Such key nations as Argentina, Chile, Brazil and Mexico have strong reservations about centralizing direction of continental planning. These countries want to plan their own way out of their individual problems and prefer an individual approach, even though the process might take longer.

Argentina, Mexico and Chile indicate they feel they are making significant strides on their own in planning. Brazil, largest of the Latin-American countries, considers itself a case apart, worthy of special treatment.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon outlined the Kennedy program at Monday's session. He pledged the United States to a 10-year development program involving more than a billion dollars a year in U.S. contributions alone to help lift Latin America out of its centuries-old rut of misery and illiteracy.

Dillon offered U.S. guarantees to development loans on a long-term basis "running where appropriate up to 50 years." Most of these loans, Dillon told the delegates, would be "at very low or zero rates of interest." The loans would actually amount to 80 per cent grants and would match or better the terms offered by the Soviet Union in its loans to backward nations.

Dillon warned Latin-America's wealthy landlords they would have to sacrifice many of their traditional privileges if the plan were to succeed. He referred to honest tax structures, surrender of vast landholding rights and other accommodations to the 20th century.

One Admitted Slayer Given Reward Share

STEELE, Mo. (AP)—The brother of a slain liquor store operator said today he has paid $500 reward to the man who admitted taking part in the killing.

Everett Utley of Steele said Charles P. Rothschild will get an additional $2,000 if the two men he named as accomplices are convicted of the crime.

"There has always been a reward for information leading to a conviction," said Utley. "I see no difference in giving the money to him as to anyone else, as long as this thing is cleared up."

Rothschild, 41, a former Cairo, Ill., policeman, is in the South Carolina penitentiary, serving five years for attempted safe robbery.

Utley and reporters for the Memphis Press - Scimitar say Rothschild admitted killing Hubert Utley, 50, six years ago at Hol land, Mo., for a $5,000 fee.

Here Are a Few Sentences That Bolster Hubby's Ego

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Lady, would you like to get on better terms with your husband? This is the goal of many wives. But they don't know how to set out to charm that favorite beast in their lives.

Husband-pleasing has become a vanishing feminine art in many a U.S. home. It has too often been replaced by husband-baiting which some wives for some reason find more exciting.

But to get a husband to eat out of your hand, so to speak, all you have to do is to butter him up like a piece of toast. His little ego needs endless bolstering.

A husband usually thinks of life as a conspiracy against him. He feels everybody from the bus driver to his employer takes him for granted. What he secretly yearns for is someone who does not take him for granted — but instead goes to the trouble of making him feel important.

You can be that one. Here are a few sample sentences of the kind that are most likely to turn him into your loving little moon calf:

"Don't get up, Fred. I'll find some matches. I just love to light your cigars for you."

"How can I blame that little blonde for trying to monopolize you at the cocktail party? After all, you were the only real man in the room."

"Now just lie there on the sofa and relax. Here, let me take off your shoes for you. See, I brought your slippers."

"I don't think it's fat. A lot of men thicken a bit and get more muscular as they grow older."

"Call me a fool if you want to, Fred, but I think it's beginning to grow back in again—right there on top."

"Well, maybe it is a little thin—but a man with a high forehead always looks more intellectual."

"A fur coat? In heaven's name what would I want with a fur coat? They make a girl look so—so bulky."

"No, I don't want to go along on your fishing trip. I think you'll have more fun with the fellows. Besides, I don't believe in wives competing with their husbands, even in sports."

"Just because I'm on a diet doesn't mean you have to go on one. You have the steak and potatoes. I'll have the leftover tuna salad."

"You paid for the first honeymoon. Let me pay for the second. I've saved enough for it from my household budget."

"I wouldn't trade husbands with any woman in the world. It sure was my lucky day when you married poor dumb little old me."

Highway Patrol Details Extras For Fair Duty

The Missouri State Highway Patrol will detail an additional 55 to 60 men to handle traffic and security measures at the 1961 Missouri State Fair. The additional men will also bolster regular patrol forces on the highways in the Sedalia area.

Fair secretary, said troopers will again monitor traffic at strategic points throughout the fairgrounds and will provide a 24-hour security force at the fair, where many thousands of dollars worth of animals and machinery will be on exhibit. Troop A will handle the bulk of heavy traffic in the area surrounding the fair.

The prospect of some 40,000 to 50,000 visitors a day at the fairgrounds will keep the troopers busy," said Ritzenthaler. Officers from adjacent troops will patrol Troop A's border counties to ease some of the pressure.

Ritzenthaler reported that the Highway Patrol will have its regular exhibit at the fair, located at the Highway Gardens.

The fair is scheduled to open on Aug. 19 and will end Aug. 27.

Dilemma Over Air Piracy

Arming of airline crews appears to be a good idea on the surface but underneath the scheme has several drawbacks that should be closely considered by both the Federal Aviation Agency and the Airlines.

Let's look at them in numerical order:

1. Any law enforcement agent will tell you that a man with a gun usually shoots when his own life is in danger. He generally kills when his victim attempts to prevent him from carrying out his purpose.
2. The lives of many passengers are involved in arming crewmen. At 40,000 feet a pilotless plane can spell disaster for all aboard.
3. A shot fired in a pressurized aircraft cabin (and they are all pressurized at high altitudes) could end in disintegration of the plane.
4. A stray bullet in the confines of a plane, remembering that the interior provides many metal parts to ricochet bullets, poses another problem.
5. A gun in the hand is like the bird in the bush. An effort to reach a gun while someone points one at you could hardly be called anything but foolish. A crewman may succeed . . . but he may not. Odds are high that he'll be killed and the hijacker could go temporarily out of his mind and kill every crewman aboard.

This is but a few of the drawbacks in arming crewmen. On the other hand arms might help deter wouldbe hijackers. But one could rest assured that a determined man would not let this stop him. It would, however, put him on edge and ready to shoot at the first suspicious move by anyone aboard.

Granted that some type of strong action is called for but the lives of passengers should never be placed in jeopardy by a display of arms aboard our common carriers.

The Kennedy administration moved swiftly following Thursday's hijacking in Texas, the third since May 1. According to reports by the various news services the President himself instructed special federal agents on action to take to prevent the airliner leaving the ground at El Paso.

Legislation making air piracy punishable by life imprisonment is being strongly urged by the administration and severe punishment may be the best weapon against such acts.

It is apparent that the latest hijackings have not been committed by maniacs and the whole affair may be just a passing fad. Regardless of the reason behind these acts a law similar to the "piracy on the high seas" law may be the answer rather than guns.

East Germans Squeeze Khrushchev

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is reporting from Berlin on the current crisis in U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations)

By DREW PEARSON

BERLIN — When President Kennedy conferred with Premier Khrushchev in Vienna, the latter told him that the East Germans were raising hob with him for a settlement of Berlin. Khrushchev discussed this almost as if he were explaining a political problem such as Kennedy's task of winning the Italian vote in Massachusetts. He was very clear and very firm, however, about the fact that the East Germans were pressing him, that the status of Berlin had been delayed long enough, that he had been quite patient.

The President got the definite impression that Khrushchev was being pushed and could delay no longer.

If you go to East Berlin, or if you interview some of the refugees fleeing from East Germany, you can understand exactly why Khrushchev is being pushed.

For Berlin is the one place in the world where Capitalism and Communism come cheek and jowl together; where the people of the two political systems can compare the boasts, the claims, the defeats, the accomplishments of each.

If you believe in coexistence, comparison between West German capitalism and East Berlin communism should not be odious. It should not cause the danger of war. But it doesn't operate that way.

Showcase of Capitalism
For West Berlin has become capitalism's No. 1 showcase—a thriving exhibit of commercial progress, set off with neon lights against a drab and dreary communist city a few yards away.

As long as West Berlin is there, flashing its neon signs, showing off its windows full of the latest styles, the latest electric gadgets, the lushest foods, East Germans are going to flock from the communist state over to the capitalistic state.

That's why President Ulbricht and Herr Gottwald, and Gerhard Eisler, the little Communist who escaped from the United States and is now propaganda minister for East Germany, are pressing Khrushchev. What they want is not coexistence, but the throttling of West Berlin capitalism.

They can't afford the daily humiliation of seeing the cream of East German manhood cross the border in a steady stream of 200,000 a year. Nor have they got over the humiliation of having the blonde and beautiful Marlene Schmidt cross over to West Berlin, then to Miami to become Miss Universe. This was not the kind of thing for a Communist-governed girl to do, and Allen Dulles's CIA is getting the blame for it.

To see first hand how East German youth is being siphoned into West Germany, I went out to the big Marianfelde refugee center. In 1953 I saw the refugees housed in empty factories and sleeping on straw sacks. There are no empty factories in West Berlin to-

DALLAS MORNING NEWS: The Kapingamarangi. — Kapingamarangi isn't easy to spell or say. But Americans should remember them. They are almost unique.

The Kapingamarangi live on an atoll in the Caroline Islands of the Pacific. Only 500, they are pure Polynesians, governed by the United States. In 1958, after nuclear tests, the Atomic Energy Commission paid a native $200 he claimed due him.

Two years later, the Kapingamarangi discovered the claim was unjust. They insisted on refunding the money. AEC didn't want payment, and knew $200 was a large sum for the 500 natives. But it put the money in its general fund. The Kapingamarangi weren't satisfied. They felt that AEC had been inconvenienced. They assembled handicraft, $400 worth, and laboriously arranged for it to get to Washington.

Nine small canoes, seven handbags, four fans and other items on display in the AEC lobby will be sold and the money contributed to a scholarship loan fund of the Trust Territory. Let us hope the buyers pay well and put at least one item in the Smithsonian Institution as a lasting memorial to the honest, upright Kapingamarangi.

Food Shortage

Japan, Taiwan and Western bloc countries are aiding in meeting Asia's food problem. These nations are demonstrating the superiority of an agricultural system based on private ownership as against the collectivized system in Communist countries.

Ten years ago Japan had to import rice. Today Japan's rice exceeds her needs and her surplus is exported to other countries. Taiwan, in its land reform program with improved methods of cultivation has enough food to feed its growing population and some to spare.

There is a definite shortage of cereals in communist China and East Germany.

The same methods in agriculture cannot always be used in all countries, but the underdeveloped countries could profit by looking to Japan and Taiwan if they would improve their farm production.

Unsightly, Dangerous

It may be a desire for neatness that's behind the simultaneous effort to keep highways cleaned up which has cropped up all over the nation. But behind the trash barrel is a barrel of good sense and behind the litterbug admonition is a literal benefit. Because the safety people have now brought forth some shocking facts about the danger of debris on the roads. The Keep America Beautiful organization estimates that 750 to 1,000 autoists are killed annually in accidents caused by striking or swerving to avoid litter. So we can make that slogan read: "Don't be a Litterbug—or a Killer."

Berlin Talks Still a Long Way Off

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — At this point the average citizen in America and the Soviet Union may be wondering why the United States and Russia don't start talking about Berlin instead of talking about talking.

President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have talked repeatedly of their willingness to have American-Russian discussions on the German city but any start of such discussions still seems a long way off.

Attack Tumors Two Ways; Surgery, Watchful Waiting

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — My doctor discovered a fibroid tumor of my uterus and gave me the choice of X-ray treatment or operation. Which is preferable? I am 35 and hate to think of having to take shots the rest of my life.

A — If you were nearer to your natural menopause and as free from symptoms and discomforts as your letter suggests, I would suggest a course of "watchful waiting" or "skillful neglect" in which the fibroids might shrink appreciably as they often do at the time of the "change." However, at 35 you are best advised to choose surgery.

This permits your surgeon to see, remove and submit for microscopic examination, the tumor or tissue involved. It also spares your ovaries thus saving you the effects produced by an artificially induced menopause. And, after operation, you will suffer no more side effects than you would have experienced from removal of an appendix or an impacted tooth.

Q — I am 19 and getting married next year. I'm big in build and have big bones but my breasts are small. They just don't seem to grow. I don't think I'd ever be able to nurse a baby and I want very much to have children and take good care of them.

Then, too, when I get married, I'm afraid I'll feel inferior before my husband. Are there gland shots or creams or vitamin pills that will help my busts to grow? And how about these operations I read about?

A — There are neither vitamins nor gland shots that stimulate breast growth appreciably. And you need not fear about your ability to nurse your child. Nature will provide for that in a manner that surpasses human endeavors. As to the operation called augmentation mammoplasty, you would be most ill-advised to submit to it under any circumstances. The operation involves implantation of a synthetic spongy material between the breast and the chest wall. If the implant does not become extruded through infection (since it is composed of foreign material); and if it does not sag, particularly after you have completed nursing your expected child or children; it may harden as it shrinks.

Perhaps you better settle for an inferiority complex. Or better still, learn to regard your breasts as functioning organs, not ornaments.

Has the Tide Turned Against World Communism?

By Robert E. Hennessee

DP&R Special Service

WASHINGTON — There is an old saying that nothing is so subtle as contemporary history.

Throughout recorded times, practically all basic changes have taken place unnoticed at the time.

Such a time as right now, perhaps.

And the question to explore, a question immediately so absurd, but one which deserves some serious notice, is this:

"Has the tide turned against communism?"

As a nation we are wringing our hands in frustration over the plight in which we find ourselves this 6th decade of the 20th century. With clock regularity, the world seems to be exploding around us. In only the last few months: The Congo, Algeria, Laos, Angola, Cuba, Kuwait, Berlin and Tunisia have rocked our composure, what little there was at the turn of the new year.

But there are hanging some ominous clouds over the Russian horizon which should disturb the basic faith of any good communist.

— Since the fall of China in 1949, the Reds have added only mountainous Tibet and the jungles of North Vietnam to their realm. And in both cases, they did so only through force of arms.

— These last 12 years have seen the Communist Parties in Western Europe fall apart.

— Of the 20 new nations which have come into being since 1949, not a single one has chosen communism as the answer to its problems. And yet these countries, mostly in Africa, encompass the most poverty-stricken areas of the globe.

— The strong nationalist movements, those led by such men as Nehru of India, Nasser of Egypt, Kassem of Iraq, Sukarno of Indonesia and even Nkrumah of Ghana, all of whom were eyed hopefully by the Russians and scorned by us, are proving major obstacles to Red expansion.

Of all the nationalist movements of the last, tumultuous decade, only Castro's Cuba has sought philosophical refuge in Red dogma and he is so unstable that even Khrushchev has spoken contemptuously of him.

— The rebirth of Western Europe in this period, a rebirth that before long may culminate in a they sit down together and get moving.

Khrushchev in his speech Monday night—addressed to the Soviet people but aimed at Kennedy—played a kind of hot weather Santa Claus. He had a little of something for everybody.

As usual he warned the United States it would get its come-uppance if it started a war. But he also said "let's not create hysteria" and proposed: "Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way."

He complimented Kennedy for showing common sense in wishing to avoid war but at the same time said the United States and its allies "are pushing the world to a dangerous brink."

This speech was in reply to one Kennedy gave July 25 on Berlin. The President's tough talk of that date reportedly angered Khrushchev. If so, it didn't show up in Monday's talk which was notable for two things:

1. It showed much more restraint than Khrushchev has used at other times.

2. It gave an impression—when he noted Kennedy's decision to build up the American armed forces — that this whole thing might get out of hand.

Kennedy's July 25 talk was obviously intended both to show Khrushchev the allies would not back down on Berlin and to cool him off a bit. Khrushchev appeared a little cooled.

Nevertheless, this situation is beginning to look like one in which one word could lead to another until both sides get in deeper than they wanted or expected.

Too much has been said on both sides now to remember it all without a file. But if you had such a file some of Khrushchev's performance at this point would look almost giddy in accomplishing what he said he wanted to avoid.

Last June 28 he said that if the West called for mobilization of its armed forces the Soviets would "take the necessary steps to strengthen our security."

Ten days passed in which the West did no mobilizing. Then suddenly on July 8 Khrushchev said Russia had suspended troop reductions, promised a couple of years ago, would jump its defense spending 25 per cent this year.

In the face of this Kennedy on July 25 proposed building up the American strength a bit by adding 217,000 men to the regular forces, plus a call-up of an unspecified number of reservists, plus increased military spending.

Then Monday Khrushchev, complaining about this, said Russia may mobilize its reserves and send more troops to its western border.

In that July 25 speech Kennedy very clearly sought to put Khrushchev on the propaganda defensive by blaming Moscow for building up trouble.

Kennedy said: "The world is not deceived by the Communist attempt to label Berlin a hot-bed of war. There is peace in Berlin today. The source of world trouble and tension today is in Moscow, not Berlin. And if war begins, it will have begun in Moscow, not Berlin."

This statement was relayed around the world. Khrushchev naturally tried to get out from under this indictment by one of the political union of Europe, is alone enough to chill the air over Russia and China.

So is it really so absurd to wonder: "Has the tide turned against communism?"

Reds Promise New World, Little Iron Fence Around It

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The best way for an American to understand the 60,000-word draft program of the Russian Communist Party just made public in Moscow is to compare or contrast it with something similar, like a U. S. political party platform.

The Communist draft program is about six times as long as the Republican or Democratic platforms of 1960. An assumption that the Commie document therefore contains six times as much hokum as a U. S. political platform may not be far wrong.

The Russian draft program will be submitted for adoption to the 22nd Congress of the International Communist Party which meets in Moscow next October. The chances for revision are roughly just about as great as the chances for revision of an American political party platform at a national convention, after the Resolutions Committee submits its draft and the organization steamroller shoves it through.

Few Americans are going to read the full text of the Communist program, which took eight full pages of the New York Times to reproduce. Few Americans read the full texts of the Republican or Democratic platforms in this country either.

The amateur and professional experts on Russia in Washington who have read the full Communist program come up with some reassuring conclusions about it.

The last time the Commies put out a snow job like this was 1919. That was the year after Nikolai Lenin established the "dictatorship of the proletariat" in Russia.

Any American political party that didn't revise its platform oftener than once in 41 years wouldn't have much chance of survival. On second thought some critics may say this is the trouble with American political parties. Neither one of them has revised its platform much in — well, say since 1932. But the Commies have a real monopoly and they can get away with it.

Anyway, this 1961 draft program of the Communists promises that within the next 20 years this "dictatorship of the proletariat" will end in Russia. The promise is that it will be replaced by "democratic electoral procedures."

These aren't explained except for a reform in the election of new members for one-fourth of the Central Committee every four years. But this doesn't mean much because the Secretariat will still run the government. It doesn't mean that there will be free popular elections in Russia by 1981.

What the experts say these "democratic electoral procedures" mean is that there will be some effort made to shift from a socialist state to "pure" communism — an old party line.

What the draft program says this will mean for the Russian people is free rent, lower prices, abolition of income and other direct taxes, free municipal transport, free midday meals for factory workers and school children, expanded free medical, rest, vacation, education and other social services.

This outpromises anything any most ancient forms of diplomatic tit-for-tat.

He tried to dump the blame back on Kennedy, saying: "The United States is threatening to start a war. Its allies in the western bloc support this dangerous course."

American politician has ever dared offer. Stupid people may believe such pie-in-the-sky stuff, but any sophisticated person — even the Russian intelligentsia — must know it is political baloney.

Even the Communist Draft program admits that all these goodies may be delayed if there is another world war. But there is no declaration of a Communist war against capitalist countries.

On the contrary, the whole Communist program seems to be built on an assumption of 20 years of peaceful coexistence with capitalism, in which communism would emerge triumphant. Prevention of nuclear war is declared possible in this generation by peaceful means.

The Communist program is most notable, perhaps, in what it does not say about contemporary crises.

Laos and Berlin are not mentioned. Germany is mentioned once as a hotbed of militarism. Lenin is mentioned, but Stalin and Khrushchev are not named once. There are veiled references to Yugoslav revisionism and the sectarianism of Chinese Communist dogmatism. Soviet Russia is made the only true trail blazer for all Communist tactics.

Why the Communist program was issued at this time is a matter of speculation. One theory is that since Chairman Khrushchev is 67 and nearing the end of his career, he may have wanted to leave behind a lasting document of party principles which will stand as a guide for the next 20 years.

Considerable discussion was held over building a platform which would block the little used sidewalk. The proposal was tabled until the next meeting.

Lewis reported parking meters were desired on Lamine on the east side of the street along the Boonlick Library. He said there was room for three to four spaces. The Council voted approval to have the meters placed here.

Councilman George Bryant recommended the placement of several street lights, which were approved by his committee of police, gas and lights. They are to be placed at 15th and Porter, 15th and Madison, three lights along West Spring street from Park Avenue to Summer Avenue, and a light in the alley between Third and Fourth, from Massachusetts to Washington. The Council approved the recommendation.

He then reported heirs of the late John Reynolds were starting to tear down the old John Reynolds house on West 11th street.

Roberts requested information regarding the report on the sewers of Sedalia being prepared by Burns and McDonald. It was pointed out the report was not completed but was anticipated in a very short time by Mayor Silverman.

Cunningham reported several complaints of residents in the area of the State Fair Sewer over the demand of payment of sewer tax bills within eight days. He reported they should be given at least 30-days. It was brought out the Sewer was completed well over 60-days ago, and the tax bills given such a dating. He said the property owners were complaining over the interest charge, which is eight per cent.

Cunningham read the resignation of Robert Paxton from the Fire Department. The resignation was accepted. Cunningham discussed the fire protection at the State Fair grounds, and moved the council furnish the fire truck and firemen under the previous agreements between the Fair and City. It was approved.

Cunningham also discussed the City taking on the garbage disposal at the fair next year if it can be obtained under the present payment that it is awarded under private contract. He explained the City could handle the problem for one week and could use the money in the Sanitation Department.

It was pointed out this is award.

Sluggers of the Moment

Musial and Berra In the Spotlight

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris? Forget the kids. The home run sluggers of the moment are Stan Musial and Yogi Berra, a couple of old guys who may be on the way out, but who refuse to go quietly.

It was Berra, now 35 and put out to pasture, you might say, in left field, who broke up a tie with a home run as the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-1 Monday night. That gave the Yanks a five-game streak and a three-game lead, their biggest bulge yet, over idle Detroit in the American League race.

And it was Musial, still The Man at 40, who socked a three-run homer that boosted St. Louis to a 5-1 victory over Cincinnati and dropped the second-place Reds .006 percentage points behind the idle Los Angeles Dodgers.

Gentile Aids Teammate Once Again

BALTIMORE Md. (AP)—Don't be surprised if pitcher Chuck Estrada of the Baltimore Orioles organizes his own fan club for teammate Jim Gentile.

An 18-game winner in his 1960 rookie season, Estrada has won only 9 this year. The 23-year-old right-hander would be in far worse shape without Gentile's batting support.

The slugging first baseman has walloped 11 of his 31 homers this season while Estrada was the Baltimore pitcher, including all four of his grand-slam homers.

The two teamed up again Monday night, Gentile hitting a solo homer his first time at bat and Estrada gaining credit for a 5-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics. Estrada left the game in the seventh with a 3-0 lead, and eventually was charged with one run.

"He—Estrada—should be on his knees after every game, polishing Gentile's shoes," Oriole pitching coach Harry Brecheen said after the game.

"You ought to make him buy you something," catcher Gus Triandos urged Gentile. "How about a new suit?"

Gentile didn't take up the suggestion, but he thought it would be a good idea if Estrada pitched more often.

"If he pitched every day, I'd have a helluva year," he said. Most fans would agree Gentile already has that kind of year.

His homer Monday night snapped a tie with Triandos for the all-time club home run record. It was his 100th run batted in, two more than the club record of 98 he set as a rookie last season.

Gentile now stands third in the American League in hitting, .333, fourth in homers, and tied for second in RBI, two behind Roger Maris of the New York Yankees.

ers in the National League scrap.

Berra's shot was his 14th of the season. Musial's was No. 11. Between them they have little more than half the total of either Mantle (43) or Maris (41) as the two Yankee outfielders shoot for Babe Ruth's long elusive record of 60.

Musial's, however, was the 40th of his 20-year career — a total topped only by Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Ted Williams, Mel Ott and Lou Gehrig, and second to Ott's 511 in National League history.

Yogi's was the 332nd of a 16-year career with the Yanks, most of it spent behind the plate. It broke a tie with Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg for 14th place on the all-time list. Only Ruth, Foxx, Williams, Gehrig, Mantle and Joe DiMaggio have hit more in the AL.

In other games on Monday's slack schedule, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 3-1 in the NL, while Baltimore defeated Kansas City 5-4 and Boston took a two-night pair from Minnesota, both by 5-4, in the only other AL games.

Mantle and Maris were held to one hit each, and got just one ball past the pitcher's mound between them against losing right-hander Ken McBride (9-8). But even with singles they were the big guys for the Yanks—next to Berra. Maris caught the Angels by surprise with a neat, two-out bunt that scored a run and made it 1-all in the third inning. Maris and Mick then paired for the insurance runs in the eighth — when Maris walked and scored as Mantle's single got past center fielder Ken Hunt for an error. Mick came in on a wild pitch.

Bud Daley (9-15) became the first southpaw to go the distance against the Angels since May 21 and broke a personal losing skid at five games by holding Los Angeles to six hits, all singles.

Musial's sixth-inning shot, followed a hit batter and a sacrifice bunt by Bill White that went for a hit when the Reds failed to cover first base, giving the Cards a 4-1 bulge. They breezed all the way, starting with a second-inning homer by Carl Sawatski off Ken Johnson (2-1) while right-hander Larry Jackson (8-8) won his fifth in a row. The Reds had seven hits, but were shut out until they got an unearned run in the eighth.

Right-hander Bob Friend (11-13) making his first start since suffering an ankle injury last Wednesday, beat Philadelphia with a four-hitter. It was the 10th straight loss and 15th defeat in 16 games for the Phils, who scored in the sixth on Ruben Amaro's triple and a sacrifice fly by Johnny Callison. Singles by Bill Mazeroski and Bill Virdon scored the Bucs' clincher in the second off John Buzhardt (3-12).

Jackie Brandt drove in Baltimore's last three runs, putting it away with a two-run homer in the seventh inning. Jim Gentile also hit a home run for the Orioles, setting a club record with his 31st. Chuck Estrada (9-6) was the winner, with relief help, and Art Dittmer (2-7) the loser.

The Red Sox won the opener on Carl Yastrzemski's two-out single in the ninth, and pinch-hitter Vic Wertz bagged the nightcap with a two-out single in the eighth. Don Schwall (13-2) won the second game — for his seventh straight success, two shy of the rookie record in the AL. Mike Fierolles won the opener with five innings of two-hit relief. Don Lee (3-3) and Pete Ramos (8-13) were the losers. The Twins have lost eight in a row, the last five by one run.

PETE FOLSE

Pete Folsie Early Entry For Races

Among the early entries to be received here at the Missouri State Fair, for the races during Fair week, was that of Pete Folsie.

Folsie, who hails from Tampa, Fla., has been the International Motor Contest Association dirt track car champion for the past two years, and from the pace he's once again setting, he's trying to make it three in a row.

Fans in the Missouri-Kansas area will remember Pete as the driver who has won the Missouri Futurity for the past two years, and they will have an excellent chance to watch him not only try for his third straight IMCA National Championship, but also for his third straight victory here at the Missouri State Fair.

But the going isn't going to be easy for Pete because breathing down his tailpipe at the present time are such men as Buzz Barton and Jim McElreath. Barton has already beaten Folsie in the Iowa Futurity earlier this season.

McElreath, who didn't make the Missouri Futurity last year, will be here this year, and he'll certainly be the "hungry" driver of the three, looking for his first taste of victory here in Missouri.

All in all, it looks like the action is going to be fast and heavy this year, and racing fans can be sure of plenty of thrills and excitement.

Big car races will be held on Aug. 19th and 20th, with the Missouri Futurity being run on Saturday, Aug. 26th.

Stalcup Blames Cage Woes On Lunatic Fringe

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — A "lunatic fringe" is to blame for many of college basketball's woes, the president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches says.

By "lunatic fringe," Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup says, he means overenthusiastic alumni and "a few misguided coaches who think the end justifies the means."

As a solution, he proposes: "Investigate the alumni. Investigate the coaches. The players. Everybody."

Stalcup made his remarks in an interview Monday during a visit here to arrange for NCAA championship playoff tickets for members of his group.

Among his suggestions: That point-shaving be made a criminal rather than civil, offense.

That the NCAA hire more investigators to uncover any possible scandals in college athletics.

Redbirds Defeat Cincinnati 5-1; O's Shade A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals, roosting in fifth place in the National League, defeated Cincinnati Monday night 5-1, unimpressed by the Reds bid for first place in the league.

The Orioles downed Kansas City 5-4 in Baltimore.

Carl Sawatski and Stan Musial hit homers for the Redbird cause and Larry Jackson won it on a seven-hitter at Busch Stadium.

The defeat dropped the Reds six percentage points behind Los Angeles in the league race.

Jackson picked up his fifth straight victory, giving him an 8-8 record.

It was newcomer Ken Johnson's first defeat in three decisions.

Sawatski hit his seventh homer in the second inning, giving the Cards a 1-0 lead.

In the sixth, Joe Cunningham got on when hit by a pitched ball, Bill White tried to sacrifice but got a hit when the Reds failed to cover first base and Stan Musial stepped up to clout his 11th homer good for three runs.

The Reds got an unearned run in the eighth and the Cards one in the ninth.

Relief pitcher Billy Hoelt played hero for the Orioles, squelching a budding Kansas City rally in the ninth inning.

He was summoned to the mound with two on base and one out and struck out Norm Siebern and got pinch hitter Ossie Virgi to hit into a game-ending force play.

The Athletics, trailing 5-1 after seven frames, scored three runs in the eighth on a walk, a bunt single by Jerry Lumpe, a Wayne Causey double and two infield outs.

Jackie Brandt hit a two run homer and drove in another Baltimore run with a single. Jim Gentile hit his 31st homer, a club record.

Baseball Becomes Struggle Instead of Joy for Groat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Groat, the National League batting champion and most valuable player of 1960, is just another shortstop "scratching and trying to get along," this season.

For the first time since the peppery captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates came out of Duke University and joined the Bucs in 1952

Film Thomas Show Before An Audience

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In the Hollywood film studios, television shows are turned out with the businesslike calm and efficiency of a factory production line.

It may be one of the secrets of its success, but "The Danny Thomas Show" is invested with the blood, sweat and tears of its crew. They build emotionally toward D-day which is every Friday, and when the week's program is finished, Danny and his top associates are depleted men—with one day to recover and then start all over.

"It's like opening night once a week," explained Thomas after last week's shooting, as he pushed some macaroni around his plate, too tired to eat.

The situation comedy now going into its ninth season is one of the two shows still made with the "live-on-film" technique that Desi Arnaz developed for "I Love Lucy." The cast rehearses each week's script and then, before a studio audience of 250, performs for the people out front and the cameras. The players are stimulated by the presence of the audience. The laughter heard on the show's sound track is the real thing.

Actors in most TV series work hard and for long hours, but treat their work as if it were a business. Danny Thomas works on his show each week as if his career depended upon every detail of his performance.

Last Friday was a typical climax to the week's work. Southern California has been suffering a hot spell and the big studio was as warm and steamy as Grand Central Station at the peak of the evening rush hour. Among the earliest arrivals for the preliminary audience warm-up were Danny's wife, attractive red-haired Rosemarie; Frances Leonard, wife of Sheldon Leonard, his partner, producer and director; and Mildred Rio, wife of Eddie Rio, his production manager.

"We come every Friday," said Mrs. Thomas. "It's fun; it gives us a chance to see the show, and we are around to take the boys home when they're finished."

The boys had started rehearsals on the completed script the previous Tuesday and had been working steadily—including an all-day dress rehearsal—up to Friday evening.

The program went off almost without a hitch. When it was over and the audience filed out, the wives strolled into Danny's luxurious air-conditioned dressing room and waited for the husbands to finish a few re-takes. In about a half-hour Thomas and Leonard joined the women. They said hello, grabbed cooling drinks and handfuls of potato chips and sat down at Danny's desk for an intense post-mortem.

When they were finished Rosemarie Thomas said, "How about some food?"

"I'm too tired to eat," said Danny.

"You need something," his wife told him. "All you've had today is a sandwich."

They proceeded to a nearby Italian restaurant.

"I don't feel as wound up as usual," reflected Danny as he ordered. "Sometimes I have a big reaction and sometimes it takes a long time to get unwound. I guess it went pretty well."

We finished dinner after midnight and everybody went straight home. Danny had a golf date in the morning, and a conference on the week's script with Leonard.

"It's hard work," said Danny. "But you feel good inside when the show has gone well."

Bankruptcy Is Declared For Hotel Owners

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Fields Missouri Corp., operator of the Elms and Oaks hotels at Excelsior Springs, Mo., has been declared bankrupt.

Frank Coakley of Omaha was appointed receiver for the corporation Monday by Harry F. Murphy, referee in bankruptcy.

Murphy said the corporation has 119 creditors, debts of $3,374,587 and assets of $1,123,240.

The Fields Nebraska Corp. and the Fields Iowa Corp. were declared bankrupt previously. Coakley is receiver in those two states also.

the game has become a struggle instead of a joy.

"Everybody wants to know what's the matter," Groat said today. "I can't begin to tell them. I don't know. If I did I would do something about it."

The infielder who won the batting title with a .325 average last year, has been poking along about 75 points under that mark this season and it's reached the state where he admittedly "becomes overwhelmed when I get two hits in a game."

"I thought I was out of that .250 class," said Groat, being an over .300 batter in three of his previous seven campaigns. "But I suppose I was only kidding myself."

Groat went 0-4 Monday night, dropping his average to .256 as the Pirates defeated Philadelphia 3-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Friend.

Always a worrier while in uniform, Groat, a former basketball All-American, can't even remember having such a frustrating time of it at the plate.

"When I hit the ball good, it's generally right at somebody," he said.

Groat quickly brushes off suggestions that he and other Pirates waxed fat along the banquet circuit during the winter after their dramatic World Series triumph over the New York Yankees.

"I'm in better shape now than I've ever been," he said, patting his belt buckle.

Groat isn't about to write off 1961 as a sorry season, however.

"There is still one third of a season to go," he said.

"Who knows? Maybe some day I'll surprise myself and get three hits in a game."

'Planetglow' Could Hold Atmosphere Make Up Clue

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — glow and similar effects on other planets can be obtained outside the earth's atmosphere.

The United States plans to launch a space probe at Venus late in 1962, when the planet will be in a favorable position for the shot. The probe, known as "Mariner A," has been designed to fly by Venus at a distance of 16,000 miles.

Observations on the planet's radiation (to determine its temperature), of the possible existence of a magnetic field, and an ultraviolet determination of its atmospheric composition will be made. The information will be transmitted back to earth before the space craft goes into an orbit around the sun.

Dr. Charles A. Barth of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., described the "night airglow" effects Monday at a national conference of 100 space scientists here at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The meeting is sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Science Foundation, and the college.

When atoms and ions of the upper atmosphere of earth combine, they emit a characteristic type of light radiation which can be identified through spectrographic interpretation, Dr. Barth said.

An ion is an electrically charged atom, or an atom which has lost an electron from its atomic structure.

This "airglow" shouldn't be confused with the aurora borealis (northern lights). Dr. Barth said, because the airglow is spread uniformly over the earth's surface at a height of about 60 miles.

The night airglow is not visible to the eye, but lies just below the limit of human sensitivity. If it could be seen, it would appear to be greenish-white, Dr. Barth said. However, he added, the night airglow on Mars, at a level of 120 miles from the surface, might be visible to human observers. In this case, the first space visitor to Mars will see a faint lavender color over the night sky, Dr. Barth said.

By determining the atmospheric composition at the airglow level, scientists are able — through mathematical correlation with other known facts—to build up an "atmosphere model" showing what the atmosphere is like at any altitude.

The Venus atmosphere remains a mystery, though, because no instruments have been able to probe through the thick cloud cover over the surface of the planet.

Observations show that earth has an atmosphere ratio of 79 per cent nitrogen to 20 per cent oxygen. Dr. Barth said: for Mars, 99 per cent of the atmosphere is found to be nitrogen. A small amount of oxygen is present, as is a trace amount of ozone.

Man Is Charged With Attempted Theft at Bank

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Walton M. Ford, 64, formerly of St. Louis, was charged Monday with attempted bank robbery and was held under $10,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing in federal court.

Ford told police he tried to rob the Community Bank in Kansas City Feb. 14. He said he handed a woman teller a note demanding money, but she fainted, and he got none.

Ford related that he robbed the Easton-Taylor Trust Co. in St. Louis of $1,960 Feb. 19, 1960, so he could pay an $80 board bill for his dog, Beauty. Then he moved to Kansas City.

Contractors Warned On Racial Bars

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Contractors handling government business will be the first to take it on the chin if a union practices racial discrimination, a management spokesman said today.

G. Allen Briggs, president of the National Association of Plumbing Contractors, made that statement in a speech prepared for delivery at the convention of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters.

Briggs called attention to proposed legislation barring racial discrimination on government projects.

"If discrimination by a union whose members are used by the contractor on government work is established, then the contractor's government work will be canceled under the new regulations," Briggs said. "We don't relish the idea of being 'knocked off' our jobs, nor do we want to see any of you 'knocked off' because of any discrimination."

Briggs said his NAPC opposes national agreements with the UA because they sometimes favored out-of-town contractors in bidding against local contractors.

"All we ask is that our contractors be treated in exactly the

Russian Defense Workers Call For Step Up In Hours

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported two huge meetings of defense workers in the Soviet Union called on the government Monday night to step up their working day from seven to eight hours.

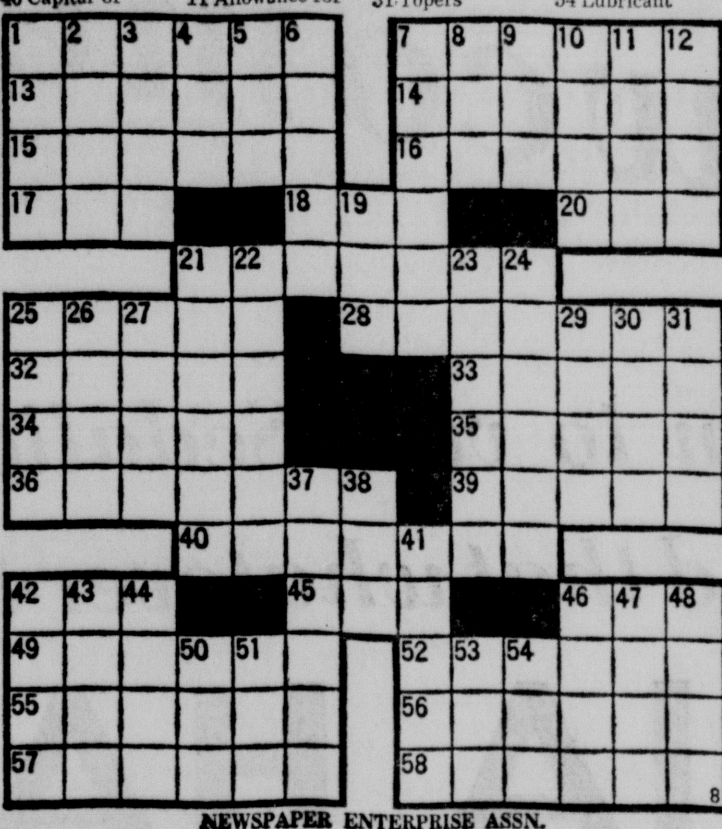

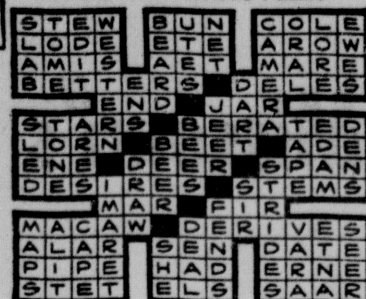

In the aftermath of Premier Khrushchev's speech warning that Soviet defense readiness may be accelerated, thousands of workers at a Moscow armaments factory staged one rally, it said.

In Leningrad the night shift at an armaments factory said it was willing to put in an extra hour a day to contribute to defense capacity, the radio added.

Reimbursement Sought After Loss of Melons

PATRICK, S.C. (AP) — Exercise Swift Strike has barely begun, but C. H. Hicks of Jefferson said troops have found the melons in one of his fields so tasty he must file a reimbursement claim with Uncle Sam.

The federalers are prepared, however, Col. R. M. Gray of the 3rd Army's judge advocate section heads a staff of men sent to Cheraw to process damage claims by landowners during the two-week war games now under way. Gray said the government will pay Hicks for the melons.

Bolivian Money Deflated In Its Real Value

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — How would you like to be a Bolivian millionaire?

All it takes is 100 U.S. dollars. Bolivia's monetary unit is the boliviano. Only a few years ago the par value of the boliviano was 190 to one U.S. dollar. But inflation—one of the worst cases in the world — set in, for reasons best explained by economists, and today it takes 12,000 bolivianos to buy $1.

So for $100 you can buy 1,200,000 bolivianos. Presto, you're a millionaire—Bolivian style.

You can go around here with your pockets bulging with money—and not have enough to take your girl to dinner. If you paid cash for an automobile, it would take a truck to carry it. And to count it, would take lots of time.

Question Legality Of Pornographic Law

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP)—Attorneys for a Junction City magazine distributor are attacking the constitutionality of the new Kansas law on confiscation of pornographic literature.

District Judge Albert B. Fletcher Jr. is holding a hearing on state's application for an order to destroy 3,352 paperback books seized July 26-27 from the P-K News Service.

Attorneys for the distributor Monday filed a motion to quash the information, alleging the law violated the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights of the Kansas Constitution.
